Security Bank of Kansas City Expands Partnership with NCR Atleos to Transform Self-Service Banking

January 4, 2024

ATLANTA--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Jan. 4, 2024-- NCR Atleos Corporation (NYSE: NATL) ("Atleos"), a leader in expanding financial access for financial institutions, retailers and consumers, today announced that Security Bank of Kansas City has selected NCR Atleos ATM as a Service as well as Atleos ITM as a Service to enable simple, convenient self-service banking for customers.

Security Bank of Kansas City has been serving businesses and consumers in and around Kansas City for 90 years. A growing but aging ATM fleet caused the bank to reconsider the deployment model and strategy behind its self-service banking offerings. As a result, the bank is trusting the experts at Atleos to provide end-to-end ATM and ITM maintenance and management, allowing the bank to expand self-service banking options for customers while saving employee time and bank resources for higher value core business activity.

"We have a track record of success with Atleos as a dependable partner for hardware and managed services. Now relying on Atleos for comprehensive ATM and ITM management and deployment as well, we will be able to evolve our self-service strategy with greater efficiency and ease," said Thomas Davies, EVP/Chief Retail Officer at Security Bank of Kansas City. "We look forward to Atleos helping us facilitate more convenient, accessible customer interactions while supporting our continued growth."

"The ATM and ITM continue to be crucial touchpoints as customers increasingly view flexibility and choice as deciding factors when it comes to bank loyalty," explained Diego Navarrete, executive vice president, Global Sales for Atleos. "By outsourcing this critical channel with us, the bank is boosting efficiencies, providing greater availability to customers, and is positioning itself to more quickly implement new features and functionality. We are proud to support this banking leader, helping them future proof their business and achieve strategic priorities."
